Former Lansing man chosen officer of year

By GISGIE GENDREAU
Lansing State Journal

Former Lansing resident Jim Couling has been chosen national corrections officer of the year by the International Order of Correctional Officers.

When the phone rang on April 8, Couling was surprised the call was for him. He and his wife, Mary, have six children — three of whom are teenagers and more likely to get calls, he said.

When the person on the other end told Couling he had been chosen for the honor, he was stunned.

On Thursday, he flew to Washington, D.C., where he was to be awarded at the Law Enforcement Memorial.

"I've considered they could have found somebody more worthy, but not somebody more honored to have been picked," said Couling, 41, who works at the Kinross Correctional Facility in Kincheloe. The facility is in the Upper Peninsula's Chippewa County.

Couling

His supervisor at Kinross, Don Dunning, said he nominated Couling for the award because he is an excellent officer.

"He's fair," Dunning said. "He has a great sense of humor. He can balance that sense of humor with the strictness necessary in a corrections facility."

Warden Robert LeCureux said Couling "represents the finest example of what an officer should be."

Couling is a substance abuse counselor and helped start a Master Gardening program for prisoners at the medium-security prison.

He has an associate's degree in law enforcement from Lansing Community College and is a former police officer in Clinton, Eaton and Shiawassee counties.

A Lansing State Journal district manager for three years, Couling left the newspaper in 1987.

Couture

WAS IT ACCIDENT, OR SUICIDE?

BOTTLE OF MORPHINE WAS DISCOVERED NEAR THE BODY.

Body Was Found in a Field near the Kincaid School House in Riley—Disappeared December 15.

A sight as gruesome as that which met the gaze of the crime seekers in Edgar Allen Poe's story of "The Black Cat" greeted the eyes of some tired hands in Riley township last Wednesday afternoon. While crossing a field near the Kincaid school house, they came suddenly upon a human body which was decomposed past all recognition and gave evidence of having lain dead for three months. The body was identified by a cap, razor, revolver, pencil and other articles as that of Andrew Couture, a nineteen-year-old boy who disappeared from the neighborhood December 15. The body was about fifty feet from the highway and was partly hidden by some low bushes.

The relatives of the lad are Peter Wenzel, an uncle and Mrs. Chas. Wenzel, his grandmother. His mother is dead and his father lives in the west. The lad was of a roving disposition, a good natured, easy going fellow, who was in the habit of going away for several months at a time without warning, so his absence caused little concern among his relatives.

Sheriff Sebavey took charge of the body that afternoon and the next morning Coroner A. H. Burnes of Riley held an inquest. F. B. Hemingway, E. B. Kincaid, William Roscoe, T. A. Spicer and John Pingel were jurors. After an examination of the body they found that the young man came to his death from causes unknown.

A peculiar feature of the case was the discovery of a bottle containing morphine a few rods from where the body was found, which suggested the theory of suicide. It is thought, however, that he did not commit suicide, having had no motive for doing so, but it is possible that he took an overdose of morphine and feeling ill lay down or sat down and was overcome by the poison. The spot is an out-of-the-way place, but he might readily have taken that direction in crossing through the field from the highway to his uncle's house.

Covert

If there is a man in the state of Michigan who has had his cup of sorrow filled to overflowing it is W. H. Covert, of Bath. He came to this town 30 years ago and soon after began the manufacturing of cider and apple jelly. His wife conducted the jelly part of the factory and it is thought by some that she came to her death by inhaling the steam from the jelly pan. Soon after her death their oldest son ended his career by taking poison. Mr. Covert married his second wife about fifteen years ago and about three years ago she was thrown from a buggy and received injuries about the head that resulted in her being taken to the insane asylum. She had just returned home, somewhat improved, when the afflicted family was struck with another shock. Their little son, eleven years old was thrown from a buggy while coming from school and died from the effects the next morning. He was a bright, lovable child, and the schools at Bath village and Bath Center closed on the day of his burial. His casket and grave were beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens by the members of his Sunday school class. Mr. Covert and wife have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole vicinity in their sad bereavement.—Lansing Republican

There is never a life without sadness,

There is never a heart free from pain:

If one seeks in this world for true solace,

He seeks it forever in vain.

So when to your heart comes the sorrow

Of losing some dear one you've known

'Tis the touch of God's sickle at harvest

Since He reaps in the fields

He has sown.

J. H. Wilcox of the Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of a few relatives. The brides were prettily gowned in brown messaline silk, and carried bride's roses. After the ceremony a five-course dinner was served to about sixteen. After spending a pleasant afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Craun left amid showers of rice for their future home, where the groom has the house all furnished for his bride, and will begin housekeeping at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Irer left in the evening, amid showers of rice, to spend several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammond of Olive, after which they will commence housekeeping on a farm in Riley.

Both couples are highly esteemed young people of Bengal and Riley, and their friends join in wishing them a life of happiness and prosperity.

CRAUN

OBITUARY.

The funeral services of Silas Craun were held at the home in Riley township on Tuesday, December 31, 1907, Rev. C. S. Tubbs of Wacousta, conducting the services.

Mr. Craun was born in July, 1848, in Ohio. He came to Michigan when he was 12 years old and had since that time been a resident of this state. His home for the last 30 years has been on the farm in Riley, where he died. His wife and four children survive him. Edwin, the oldest son, is now living in St. Johns; Howard lives in Lansing and Alfred is at home. The daughter, now Mrs. Bessie Brooks, lives at Riley. Besides his own immediate family he left three brothers and four sisters. His father died three years ago at the remarkable age of 93.

Mr. Craun was a man of quiet life, loving his home and the work of the farm. He was known throughout the community as a man whose word could be depended on. He will be missed not only by those in his own home, but those, his neighbors, will miss his quiet helpful life and his readiness to help in anyway when the need came. The burial was at Wacousta cemetery.

Cuolahan

Cuolahan-Lankton Wedding Nuptials

One of the prettiest home weddings of the early autumn took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lankton on Madison street, Wednesday, August 31, at 10:30 a. m., when their only daughter, Hazel S., became the bride of Dr. Paul B. Cuolahan of Findlay, Ill.

In accordance with the season, tall baskets filled with pink asters, with a generous touch of green, formed a color scheme of pink and green, which predominated throughout the rooms.

DR. PAUL B. CUOLAHAN.

Preceding the wedding ceremony Miss Mildred Mattoon of Hastings sang "At Dawning" and Mrs. Glen Shipley of Harbor Beach, cousin of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly." To the wedding march played by Mrs. Shipley the bridal party took their places before a bank of flowers. The groom was attended by Ernest Vennum of Findlay, and Miss Frances Fishburn of St. Johns acted as maid of honor. Rev. John C. Willits of the Central M. E. church, of Lansing, read the ring service. Little Beatrice Lankton, cousin of the bride, acted as ring bearer.

MRS. PAUL B. CUOLAHAN.

The bride wore a gown of pink crepe meteor, trimmed with white lace and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and snapdragons. Her maid of honor was gowned in a green and white peblette and carried a shower bouquet of Russell roses and snapdragons.

Immediately following the ceremony a three-course wedding breakfast was served in the banquet hall of the First Baptist church, where covers were laid for 50 guests. The color scheme of pink and green was carried out by baskets filled with asters, which centered the tables. The wedding breakfast was under the supervision of Mrs. Remus of Lansing. The guests were served by four young lady friends of the bride—The Misses Lois Webb of Lansing, Bertha Staub of Olive, Flossie Eldridge and Margie Pennell of Dewitt.

Dr. and Mrs. Cuolahan are graduates of the Dewitt and Lansing schools. Mr. Cuolahan attended the Northwestern University of Chicago, graduating in 1918. During the late war he was in active service overseas, spending over a year in France. Mrs. Cuolahan is a graduate of the State Normal at Ypsilanti and for the past year has been supervisor of art in the Monroe city schools. They were the recipients of many valuable and useful gifts.

The friends from out of town who were in attendance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Lankton and two children, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Hatchell, and Miss Lucy Lorenz, all of Lansing, and Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Lorenz of Laingsburg. Congratulations from Mr. Cuolahan's relatives and friends from Findlay, Ill., Darlington, Milwaukee and Merrill, Wis., were received.

Dr. and Mrs. Cuolahan left in the afternoon for the east, where they will spend two weeks. They will visit in Bridgeton, N. J., where they will be the guests of Mr. Russell Henderson, a close friend of Dr. Cuolahan, whose acquaintance was formed while they were overseas. Dr. and Mrs. Cuolahan are planning to locate in Lansing where he will open an office for the practice of dentistry.

partment—A affliction visited his home, when the stern hand of death laid its icy fingers upon his young wife and tore away the moorings of his dream of love, like a dark incubus burdeping the heart.

February 15, 1899, he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Eckert, sister of his first wife. To them was born a son, George, who with the widow survives him. He is also survived by three brothers and an only sister, namely: Joseph L. of Delta; Edward, of Riley; William, of Swartz Creek, Genesee county, and Miss David A. Bennett of Riley.

He died on Tuesday, November 21, of neuralgia of the heart, while engaged at hauling gravel on the highway near his home on the Lottie Maier farm in Delta township. He complained of not feeling well and decided to go home; and upon unloading his wagon he immediately expired, although medical assistance came only to say that life had ebbed away.

Undertaker Haladay of Grand Ledge was called and removed him to his home where funeral services were held on Thursday, November 23; Rev. G. H. Ashworth of Lansing, officiating. Interment was made in the Wacousta cemetery, under the ceremonies of the Wacousta Masonic fraternity.

In his death a gloom has settled down on the community where he has lived during the past four years, and also in Riley township where he spent most of his useful life. A feeling of sympathy is universally felt for the afflicted widow and son.

Cupit

OBITUARY

John C. Cupit was born at Utica, Macomb county, Mich., August 2, 1861. At the age of 4 years he came with his parents to Clinton county, where they settled on a farm in the township of Riley. There young John grew to manhood 'mid the trials and difficulties of pioneer life, and as he matured in years he did his part in helping to improve the farm home and bring about better living conditions.

He therefore well knew what it means to brave the storms of adversity as they beat wildly against the shores of the sea; life, casting many an anxious care upon the heart of those sturdy men and women of those early days in the long ago.

These experiences all served to blend in the warp and woof of life the firm integrity and honesty of purpose which characterized all his acts through every passing year of his dealings with his fellow men, establishing for him a record of good will and respect among all who knew him. He was scrupulously honest and trustworthy.

April 4, 1883, he was united in marriage to Miss Emma Eckert of Riley township. To this union a little daughter, Edith, was born, who lived just long enough to bring a supburst of joy into the family home; dying at the age of only 18 months.
