DeWitt

Horace DeWitt, aged fifty-six years, died Monday at the county poor farm after having been there but two days. His death is said to have been caused by a grippe but is thought to have been hastened by remorse at having been taken to that place. He had been urged to go for some time but was unwilling. Last Saturday, after having slept out in damp places for several nights he was in a very bad way and was finally persuaded to go to the farm.

The deceased was born in New York state and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John DeWitt. After moving to Clinton county, John DeWitt became interested in lumber and other money-making enterprises and at one time was considered the wealthiest man in the county. His son was given a good education in the east and had a brilliant career before him as an accomplished accountant. It is said that he was capable of holding almost any position where accuracy and swiftness in figures was required.

He worked with his father and kept a branch office in Saginaw for a number of years, after which he was employed in several different offices. Early in life he began to drink heavily and soon lost his position and chances of obtaining steady work. He was married and had one son. After a few years his wife left him and his son went away from home. The latter is now working in Lansing.

The funeral was held at the county house Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Eli Good officiating. A respectable burial was given him and the remains were interred in the cemetery adjoining the poor farm. His funeral expenses were defrayed by a wealthy sister who lives in Bay City. The deceased also has a brother in Flint. One of his brothers was burned to death several years ago when R. M. Steel's large barn burned to the ground. It was thought to have caught from a pipe DeWitt was smoking when he fell asleep.

For a number of years past Horace DeWitt was a familiar figure around the saloons of St. Johns. He used to work a little at carpentering and odd jobs to get money for drink. He seldom spent a cent for anything else. His bed for many years was the apple dryer, being obliged to leave that place, he slept in barns or any place that he could. He was in very poor health all last winter and was several times urged to go where he would have better care, but the poor house did not seem an inviting place to him and he always refused. His misspent life is, at this time, the subject of much comment among the townspeople and is deeply regretted by many who would have been his friends had he ~~been~~

Funeral Services Conducted
For Highly Esteemed St.
Johns Woman Tuesday

Mrs. O. P. DeWitt, highly esteemed and well beloved St. Johns woman, succumbed to a sudden attack of heart failure at her home on Ottawa street shortly after noon Saturday, September 28, 1929. Although not in good health Mrs. DeWitt had been feeling fairly well and her death came as a great shock to her family and many friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence at 2 o'clock Tuesday conducted by Rev. H. A. Blanning of Benton Harbor, and Rev. Thomas S. Cleaver, pastor of St. Johns Congregational church. St. Johns business places were closed during the hour of the funeral which was largely attended.

Several years ago Mrs. DeWitt became afflicted with heart trouble and had since suffered several intermittent attacks which kept her closely confined. Despite this illness Mrs. DeWitt maintained the courageous spirit and cheery disposition that marked her whole life and whenever possible was always determined to try and be independent of the care of others. She had often expressed the hope that when the end came it might not be the result of a long period of illness, but might take place suddenly.

For nearly the past 50 years, Mrs. DeWitt, who was born in Riley township, had been a resident of St. Johns. She was a kind and helpful neighbor and a great lover of her home and family. She possessed many warm friends by whom her memory will be greatly cherished.

Hattie E. Jones, daughter of Nathan E. and Susan M. Jones, was born in Riley township, Clinton county, Michigan, January 10, 1860. Here she spent her childhood and received her education.

November 20, 1880 she was united in marriage to Olney Place DeWitt, also of Riley. In May, 1881, they came to St. Johns where they have since made their home.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Lee and Mark, two grandchildren, and two brothers, O. E. Jones of Ovid and A. G. Jones of this city.
