Miss McCrum, R. D. Stanton Repeat Vows

A cascade of pink rosebuds, white carnations and button mums was carried by Miss Bonnie Louise McCrum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. McCrum of DeWitt, as she exchanged wedding vows Saturday with Richard D. Stanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester W. Stanton of 1713 Herbert st., in the Community church, DeWitt.

The bridegroom attended Ferris Institute where he was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Delta.

A ballerina length gown of nylon organza was chosen by the bride for her nuptials. It was designed with a portrait neckline formed of embroidered nylon motifs. The same motifs accented the skirt which fell into a yolk effect below the waist.

A shallow scalloped crown trimmed in rhinestones secured her veil.

Deloris Smith, sister of the bride from DeWitt was honor matron in a beige nylon organza shirtwaist and carried pink carnations.

James Uri of Lake Thirteen was best man.

An afternoon reception at the DeWitt high school followed the ceremony, and a buffet for relatives and close friends was later served at the bride's home.

The couple traveled to northern Michigan for their honeymoon.

A Little Step Away
Close the eye, to feel asleep,
To draw a labored breath,
To find release from daily care,
In what we know is death...
Is this the crowning of a life,
The aim or end thereof?
The total sum of consciousness?
The ripened fruit of love?
It cannot be, for works of love
Are wrought for nobler ends,
And those away continue on
In the hearts of kindred friends.
It cannot be, for they live on
A little step away, and go
The soul, on the everlasting way,
Has found a better day...
A better day...
A better day...

Mom and Son Get Degrees Together

Mrs. Beulah H. McGovney of DeWitt was not content to sit idly in the stands as a proud parent when her son James graduated from Michigan State university Sunday.

This handsome school teacher, housewife and mother of three sons donned academic robes and joined her son to receive a bachelor's degree of her own.

When the McGovneys moved to Lansing 12 years ago, Mrs. McGovney had established a career as a school teacher and stepped right into a teaching job with the DeWitt school system.

SONS IN SCHOOL

With three strapping sons to bring up and put through school, she postponed advancing the formal education she started at Miami university, Oxford, O.

Then the day came when all the boys were in college—one at Western Michigan and two at Michigan

State—and she had time to pick up the books again.

Sunday she received her degree in elementary education at the same time James was awarded his degree in agricultural mechanics.

TO CONTINUE TEACHING

James, a graduate of DeWitt high school and member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, plans a sales and service career in agricultural equipment.

Mrs. McGovney will continue as fifth grade teacher at DeWitt.

Proud father and husband is William N. McGovney, who is a supervisor at the Fisher Body division of General Motors corporation in Lansing.

Who got the best grades at M. S. U.?

Mrs. McGovney wouldn't comment but admitted that having mother enrolled as a student sort of keeps the son's nose to the scholastic grindstone.

McGuire

When some future historian sits down to compile the history of DeWitt, one of the most prominent names in his narrative will undoubtably be Orla E. McGuire.

done on things like sewers and roads, and record keeping was almost non-existent.

Being a civil engineer with the State Health Department where his work was municipal - hand in annexing Lake Geneva when the village became a city in 1965. McGuire, as a member of the DeWitt Lions Club since 1952, also helped develop Riverside Park. And today, he still holds the title of deputy building inspector and zoning administrator.

These, if you can believe it, were part-time activities for which McGuire charged the city no money, and as a full-time pursuit, he served with the State Health Department where he was a designing engineer on a lengthy sheet of water supply system projects as well as being responsible for opening the first Health Department office in Northern Michigan after the second World War.

McGuire also put in 17 years with the U.S. Army, including a hitch as post engineer at the General Army Hospital in Northern India during the war and later organized the medical section and served as an instructor with the U.S. Army reserve in Lansing, from which he retired as a Colonel in 1963.

McGuire was born nearly three quarters of a century ago in Jones County, Iowa, and later graduated from the University of Iowa, majoring in civil engineering and specializing in sanitary hydrologics.

He came to the Michigan Health Dept. in 1948 and after 43 years with them, he retired, though he still does consulting work on the side ("one of my hobbies," he adds) besides working for the city.

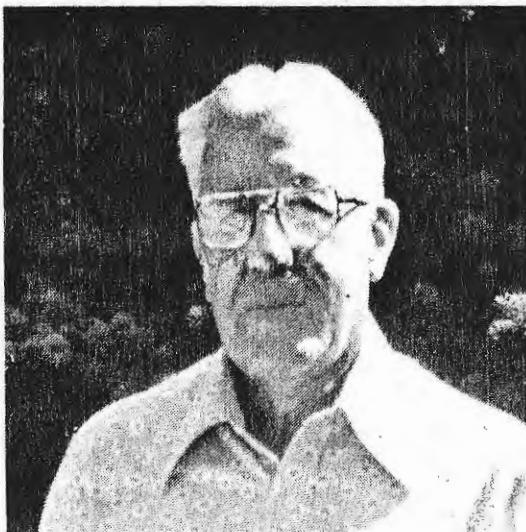

While some who reach McGuire's age castigate the present and long for the good old days, McGuire is different and does not sourly yearn for the past, either in DeWitt or in his personal life.

"You can't stop growth," he said in refuting the notion that DeWitt was better 'back then'."

"You can't stop progress and you got to keep abreast of the changing conditions, because once you stop doing this, you go backwards."

McGuire is still as spry and as sharp as any person half his age and says if he has a philosophy of life it would be advice given to him by an old Army Colonel who admonished, "if there ever comes a time when you have a doubt in your mind if you should say something to somebody, don't say it."

McGuire still lives in the same house at 310 E. Dill, as when he first came to DeWitt with his wife Irene, and probably one of the finest tributes the city could give him came recently when they named the new park on Norris and Main St., Orla E. McGuire Park.

Orla McGuire

Mr. McGuire, as he is known at City Hall, has been a resident of DeWitt for 27 years and during that time he has never been content to begrudgingly pay his taxes and leave the job of contributing to city government to the next guy.

When he first came to DeWitt village, as it was known then, in November 1948, he nostalgically recalls it, "as a farming community where everybody came to town on Saturday and where only main street was blacktopped."

He also remembers there wasn't very much planning oriented, McGuire decided, "this little community had potential and very pronounced development possibilities," and being, as he says, "a civic minded person," he got involved in city government and became City Engineer, a position he still holds today.

During the years, he served as chairman of the Planning Commission (1960 - 1973) where he helped draw up the City master plan, chairman of the Charter Commission which made him responsible for writing most of the city's ordinances and besides having a DeWitt Community church was the scene Sunday, Sept. 25, at 4:00 in the afternoon of the wedding of Miss Amaryllis Lee McKinney, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor McKinney, of DeWitt, to Paul E. Mulford, son of Mrs. Jesse Mulford and the late Mr. Mulford, of Lansing. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Moon, an uncle of the bride, before an altar graced with baskets of white gladioli, palms and cathedral tapers, in the presence of 175 guests.

"Because," "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung during the ceremony by Mrs. Earl Hawkins, accompanied by Miss Helen Moon.

The bride, who was escorted down the aisle by her grandfather, Bert Moon, was gowned in candlelight satin. The skirt was fashioned with a peplum of chantilly lace, which cascaded down the back and ended in a cathedral-length train. A veil of French illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white gardenias and stephonitis upon a white Bible.

Mrs. Lee Lankford, of DeWitt, a twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Norma Decker, of DeWitt, and Miss Aileen Demarest, of Lansing. The matron of honor wore a dusty rose gown fashioned after that of the bride, with yellow carnations in her hair. Her bouquet was of yellow roses and carnations. The bridesmaids' gowns were of peacock blue satin fashioned after the bridal gown also. They wore matching nets and satin hats and carried bouquets of white carnations and roses. Paula and Bonnie Selick, nieces of the bride, were flower girls, and Vincent Moon Reed carried the rings.

Maynard Mulford assisted his brother as best man and the ushers were Lee Lankford, of DeWitt and John Semishko, of Lansing.

Mrs. McKinney chose a dress of coffee crepe with brown accessories for the wedding and wore a yellow rose pinned to her glove. The grooms mother wore a gray suit with navy blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A reception followed the wedding in the church parlor, which was decorated with asters and other fall flowers. The table bore a lace cloth on which was centered the wedding cake, surrounded by yellow roses and tapers. Mrs. Richard Daigle cut the cake, assisted by Miss Janette Staub. Mrs. Theodore Ward presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Eugenie Coin and Miss Beverly Blizzard registered the guests.

The bride and groom both graduated from the DeWitt high school in 1947. After a short trip through the east they will reside in DeWitt.

Potato Referendum Will Be Voted

September 30 at Mid-
Is Deadline, Kridner.

A last-minute appeal to potato growers to cast their vote in the current potato referendum before the midnight deadline, Sept. 30, was voiced today by V. Kridner, chairman of Clinton County PMA committee.

Growers need only mark ballots, place them in the self-dressed, postage-free envelope furnished for the purpose, and them in the mail box for postage. The envelopes containing the lots must be postmarked no later than midnight, September 30, in order to be considered valid.

"Voting in this referendum, we will decide two important questions made as simple and easy as possible," Kridner said, "and that reason, we are hoping a large percentage of participants that there can be no doubt what potato producers favor."

POTATO PRODUCERS voting in the referendum will decide whether or not they approve of issuance of a federal marketing order regulating the handling and marketing of potatoes in Michigan and five midwest states under certain conditions and whether or not the price support program will be continued for the 1950 crop.

A two-thirds favorable vote is required by law before the marketing order, and with it the potato price support program, can be continued for the 1950 crop.

Actually, Kridner said, growers will be asked to vote only on the question of the federal marketing order. However, Congress has provided in Public Law 471, 81st Congress, that no price support will be made available for potatoes in the 1950 crop if proposed marketing orders are disapproved by producers voting in referendums.

Because of the economic importance of the referendum, all eligible growers are urged to vote. Ballots were mailed to all known eligible growers and any grower who did not receive a ballot and who believes he is eligible to vote should contact the county PMA office where he will be furnished a ballot.

PIONEER DIES

WILLIS McLOUTH

Willis McLouth, one of twin sons of Newton and Emily Hathaway, was born in Riley township, Clinton county, Michigan, September 30 1856. His twin brother, Wells, died when he was five years old. His father purchased the Morgan Christopher farm adjoining the village of Dewitt on the north. They moved from Riley to this farm when Willis was six years old.

October 5, 1881, he was united in marriage to Miss Josephine Elizabeth Holmes of this village. To this union were born two daughters, Florence Merle and Helen Lucile. The latter passed away on August 11, 1911. After a few years living at his parents home he purchased the late Henry C. Hart residence across the street from his old home where he has since resided having lived in this locality 72 years.

In 1880 Mr. McLouth entered the mercantile business with the late John E. Janes when they run a general store for a number of years in the building formerly the Milton White store. Later he was engaged in the milling and merchandising business with Homer Brazee. For the past ten years he has managed the Kraas Lumber and Coal Company and during these years he has also been interested in his several farms and other business enterprises throughout the county. After a short illness of only four hours of heart trouble he passed away at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 22, aged 77 years. SWELLEST . WEDDING

Ever Held in DeWitt—Took Place at the Home of Willis McLouth, January Second.

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed in DeWitt took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis McLouth, Bridge street, north, Thursday, January 2, 1908, when their youngest daughter, Helen Lucile, was united in marriage to Frederick Harry Petersmeyer, of Rouleau, Saskatchewan, Canada. The parlors were decorated in green and red suggestive of the holiday season. The dining room colors were maize and blue, the colors of the University of Michigan, where the groom met his bride. The flowers were yellow roses. The ceremony was before a screen of red carnations and green.

At 1:30 p.m. the wedding march from Lohengrin was rendered by Miss Edith Leonard of Detroit, as the bridal party entered the parlors. Little Misses Ruth Woodruff and Laura Williams formed an aisle with ribbons for the approach of the bridal party. The maid of honor, a cousin of the bride, Miss Josephine Holmes, of Duplain, little Helen Petersmeyer, sister of the groom bearing the ring. The best man, Mr. Edgar Petersmeyer, of Cherokee, Iowa, and the groom, last the bride, Rev. J. W. Hayward pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of DeWitt, officiated.

At the close of the ceremony Miss Leonard played the wedding chorus by Mendelssohn. The bride's gown was cream chiffon satin over taffeta silk. Her tulie veil was fastened with hyacinths. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The maid of honor's gown was white silk with chiffon trimmings and her bouquet was red roses. After the ceremony a six-course luncheon was served to 130 guests. The heart design was well carried out in the refreshments, the design of the ice cream being a heart within a heart. The luncheon was served by Miss Helen Esselstyn of Lansing, Misses Blanche and Elizabeth Wetherell, Marguerite Woodruff of DeWitt; Messers. Hubert Pratt and Clifford McKibbin of Lansing, Edward Huise of St. Johns and Mark Norris of DeWitt. The bride and groom left in the evening for Chicago and thence to Cherokee, Iowa, the former home of the groom and later to Minneapolis, Winnipeg and their future home in Rouleau, which they will reach in the latter part of February. The bride's going-away-gown was brown broadcloth with cloak and hat to match. Miss McLouth graduated from the Lansing high school in the class of 1906 and took a two-year course at the University of Michigan. One of the prettiest and most elaborate society events that has taken place in our neighboring village of DeWitt occurred at 1:30 last Thursday afternoon. The scene was at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis McLouth, who are among the most prominent residents not only of DeWitt but also of Clinton county. Mr. McLouth is a capitalist and interested in various enterprises. The event was the marriage of their daughter Helen Lucile to Harry F. Petersmeyer of Ronleau, Saskatchewan, Canadian Northwest. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Hayward of DeWitt.

The guests, upward of 100, including relatives and friends from Cherokee, Iowa, Chicago, Ronleau, Canada, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Mt. Pleasant, Lansing, St. Johns, Ann Arbor, Evanston, Ill., and other places, were received by the parents of the bride and groom and by the sister of the bride and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Kraas.

The ceremony took place before a bank of green Smilax and ferns and red carnations were the decorations. The dining room was decorated in yellow and blue (the U. of M. colors) and in the center of the table was a bowl of yellow roses and blue chiffon, was draped from the centerpiece to each corner.

The ribbon bearers, who formed an aisle for the bridal party, were the Misses Laura Williams and Ruth Woodworth of DeWitt. They were gowned in white. Little Helen Petersmeyer was the bearer of the ring for the service and this emblem of the beginning until the end of constancy was carried in a red rose—a very pretty conceit.

The bride, who, as Miss McLouth, was a popular young lady among both old and young acquaintances and especially among those in her own home village, is a graduate of Lansing high school, after which she took a two-year course at U. of M., where she first met her future husband. Mr. Petersmeyer was a student for two years at Cornell University to which was added two years at U. of M. He is now engaged in the grain and lumber business at Ronleau, Saskatchewan, Canada, where he has been about 18 months. It is a village of about 600, but is growing steadily and promises to be among the leading places of the now rapidly developing Northwest Territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Petersmeyer left soon after the ceremony for their home in Ronleau, going via Cherokee, Iowa, the groom's old home, where they will remain about ten days, then to Minneapolis, Minn., and Winnipeg, Manitoba, for a few days.

The bride takes with her the well wishes of a large circle of friends to her distant home and new relations.

Death of Mrs. Harry F.
Petersmeyer

Death has taken away from among the residents of Rouleau another highly esteemed woman—Mrs. Harry F. Petersmeyer. Death occurred on Friday night, Aug. 11th. Though ailing for some time the seriousness of her condition was not really realized by those not in close touch with the sick room. The ultimate cause of death was heart failure, so sudden that medical aid could do nothing to sustain life even for a brief period to allow the last farewells to be said by those to whom she was so dear. Her mother, Mrs. Willie McLouth, had been sent for during the week, but she did not arrive until Sunday morning, too late to see her daughter alive, the daughter whom she had left a few months previous in excellent health.

The funeral service was held at the family residence on Sunday afternoon at 1:45, Rev. H. G. Cairns officiating. After a brief service, during which were sung those old soul-comforting hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "The Sands of Time are Sinking," the body was taken to the C. P. R. depot, followed by a long train of mourners, and from there was taken to DeWitt, Michigan, for interment. The remains were accompanied by the bereaved husband, her mother, Mrs. McLouth, her sister Mrs. W. F. Kraas, Mr. W. F. Kraas, and Mr. H. W. Petersmeyer.

The deceased, Helen Lucile McLouth Petersmeyer was aged 24 years, 5 months and 27 days. Her home was at DeWitt, Mich., until about three and a half years ago, when she married Mr. Harry F. Petersmeyer, whom she had met while both were students at State University of Michigan. Of a quiet, pleasing disposition, she won the friendship and respect of all with whom she came in contact. For a time she was organist in the Methodist church and in other ways proved herself a kindly worker of that institution. To the bereaved husband the sympathy of the entire community is extended.

We cannot think her dead, nor do we need to endeavor so to do for the use of the word is a true anomaly. Let us say, rather, we cannot think her gone. We listen for the coming of her step, but in vain. Voice calls to voice, and answers, but hers has died from the places which once she knew.

We cannot let her finally depart without one last tribute. Hers was a rare and great soul. And this does not preclude or supersede any other, for all work out their own destiny. Her life spelled out the Infinite God. As we gaze on her marble brow, dewy with the damp of death, we ask; "are you gone?" We cannot thus understand it.

"We bring garlands for the departed, but if she could call from 'The abode where the eternal are,' she would say: 'Cast them at the feet of the living, be your gifts unto one who faints in life's way, for I have attained the Gift of all Gifts.'"

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING

Charming Dewitt Lady the Bride of a St. Louis, Mo., Merchant

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis McLouth, on Bridge street, Dewitt, was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday afternoon, August 29, at 3 o'clock, when their elder daughter, Florence Merle, was united in marriage to Mr. William Frederick Kraas, of St. Louis, Missouri. About two hundred guests were present.

An abundance of asters, with bride's roses and green were used in the decorations. The color scheme in the parlor and sitting room was green and white, with a bank of palms and white asters in the former. The decorations in the dining room were pink and white. Lohengrin's wedding march was rendered by Mrs. Jay Brooks, of Grand Rapids, as the bridal party descended the stairs. The ribbon bearers, the little Misses Majel Weale, of Duplain, Ruth Woodruff, Laura Williams and Pearl Moots, of Dewitt, gowned in white, entered first and formed an aisle. The little flower girl, Margaret Brooks, gowned in pink, scattered rose petals in the path of the bride who entered alone. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white net over white silk with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The full ring service of the Methodist-Episcopal church was impressively read by Presiding Elder Louis DeLamarre, D. D., of Lansing.

Following the ceremony young lady friends of the bride, from Albion, sang several solos, and a wedding luncheon was served.

Mrs. Kraas has always resided in Dewitt. She graduated from the high school in the class of 1899 and from the conservatory at Albion in 1903. She is charming lady and a talented musician. Mr. Kraas formerly resided in Dewitt, but for some time has been engaged in commission house business in St. Louis, Mo., where the young people will be at home at 5514 Virginia avenue after October 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Kraas left late in the afternoon in an automobile for Lansing enroute to Chicago, where they will spend some time before going to their home. The bride's going-away gown was blue and she wore a pearl grey hat.

Among the many guests from away were the Misses Marcia and Gretchen Lutz, and Georgia Pratt, of Albion; Miss Louise Bangs, Miss Tiffie Krause, Misses Bello, Mollie and Deborah Hartley, Miss Helen Esselstyn, Mrs. Louis Esselstyn, Mrs. Nellie Houston and daughter, Ida, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Houston, Mr. and Mrs. John Schlee, Mr. and Mrs. H. Glenn Holmes, Hubert Pratt, Clifford McKibbou and Miss Donna Savage, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Brooks and daughter, Margaret, and Miss Florence Rader, of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Goette and daughter, Blanche, Mr. and Mrs. Galusha Pennell, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Munger and daughter, Olive, Attorney and Mrs. E. L. Walbridge and daughter, Zou, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Church, of St. Johns; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holmes and daughters, Josephine and Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. George Weale and daughter, Majel and son, Carl, and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Pearl, of Duplain; and Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Holmes, of Bear Lake.

McLouth the old home pictured here remained vacant or rented for a number of years. It was their granddaughter (the only surviving child of Willis and Josephine) who revitalized the home. Merle McLouth and her first husband, William Kraas, bought the Sibley Lumber Co. in DeWitt around 1920. At about the same time they built a home across the street from the old homestead.

McLouth history dates back to mid-1800's in DeWitt

By KEN COIN

Recently the Griffins have been cleaning out the attic of their landmark home and have been passing along some McLouth family papers to be placed in the library's local history collection. The following is a brief account of the family who made this their home for nearly 100 years.

In 1856, Newton and Emily (Hathaway) McLouth came up from Lenawee County and settled on a homestead four miles north of DeWitt in Riley Township. Shortly after the Civil War they moved to the DeWitt area, this time purchasing the former Morgan Christopher farm (at that time the farmland north of Madison street and west of Bridge).

The house pictured above was built for the McLouths in 1871 and substantial barns were added to the property in 1873 and 1888. A modern operation, it became one of the showplace farms of the area. Besides farming and stock raising, Newton McLouth became actively engaged in land dealings and at one time owned five area farms totaling over 550 acres.

The McLouths had only two children, twin sons, William and Willis, born in 1856. William died when only five years old and the remaining child, Willis, eventually joined in business partnership with his father. In 1881 Willis married Josephine Holmes, a local teacher. They purchased and rebuilt a house across the street (currently the home of Dave and Peggy Haviland at 314 N. Bridge) where they remained for over 50 years.

Willis continued much of his father's land interests after the latter's death and was also a long-time partner in the DeWitt Mill and later became partners with two DeWitt merchants, Homer Braze and John E. Jayne. In later years he was manager of DeWitt's Kraas Lumber and Coal Co. (owned by his daughter Merle). He and Josephine were charter members of the Masons and Eastern Star and active members of the old Clinton County Pioneer Society.

thing different to do," he said, adding that he never goifed.

"If you're going to own a tavern," he explained, "you're better off if you don't drink."

WITH THE help of wife and three children, Magsig ran the golf course for 10 years, then sold it. In the meantime, he put in 39 years at Motor Wheel, retiring from the tool room in 1976.

Now Magsig often spends 10 or 12-hour days acquiring antique tractors and restoring them, as closely as possible, to their original condition. If that means driving to Cincinnati for a carburetor or scouring the trade journals for original spark-plugs, or traveling to antique tractor shows around the country, that's what Magsig does.

He performs most of the surgery in his barn, working in his grease-covered overalls, turning chunks of rusted iron into working machinery.

"SHE HAS to come out and drag me in for dinner," he said, gesturing toward his wife. "When I'm out there I forget time."

Sometimes it is simply a matter of "straightening out the dents, cleaning off the grease, sandblasting away the rust and painting it," Magsig said. Usually he must go deeper. On the average, he spends about a year on each tractor.

Magsig brought his Fordson home in boxes. He found his John Deere "B" abandoned in the woods north of St. Johns. The tractor had been there so long that trees had grown through its draw bar.

Antique tractor buff Archie Magsig poses with two of his prized possessions.

HIS CURRENT project — "a gem" — is a Samson Model "M," built by General Motors in 1920 in an effort to compete with Henry Ford's Fordson. The Samson, produced only for a few years at a loss of $33 million, was said to be one of GM's worst mistakes. The problem was that it cost too much. A 1919 Samson sold for $650; the sticker price on a 1923 Fordson was $495.

Vintage tractors keep Archie Magsig running

DeWITT — A man can own only so many ancient tractors. Yes, Archie Magsig knows this, but it's a cruel truth and he would just as soon not dwell on it.

He has seven in his barn, four more in his shed. And before you can say John Deere there will be another "moment of weakness" in a forgotten corner of some dilapidated barn and Magsig will make it an even dozen.

HE LOVES old tractors. Fair enough. Still, a reporter must get to the bottom of things: Once Magsig has rescued and restored as many tractors as his buildings will hold, what will he do with them?

"Good question," he said, moving on to more important matters, describing the mechanical idiosyncrasies of his beloved machines.

Later he faced the question squarely: "I guess I'll have to sell one once in awhile," he said, speaking like a destitute widow trying to decide which one of her children she can no longer feed. "I wouldn't know which one to sell; they're all like part of the family."

AND THEN there's the possibility of building another shed...

Magsig's "first-born" was a McCormick-Deering 10-20, built in 1928. He bought it about 15 years ago from a woman who belonged to his church and knew of his soft spot. It was one of three tractors he "always wanted." The other two were a Fordson and a John Deere "GP," both of which now occupy his shed.

Asked to explain his passion for the old beasts of burden, Magsig sputters a little. It has to do with his love of mechanics and his boyhood memories of the days when the old threshing machines roamed his native Clinton County — the days when U.S. 27 was two clay wagon tracks.

"Maybe it comes from walking behind a horse-drawn plow" (on his father's farm), he mused. "I never was too much of a horse man. The neighbors were a little more progressive than my dad. I could see them plowing eight acres a day while we were plowing one."

MAGSIG, 66, lives on U.S. 27 with his wife of 42 years, Donna, in a house he has occupied since his first year of life. Following in his father's footsteps, he farmed the land until 1961, then turned 140 of the 160 acres into the Highland Hills Golf Course.
