LIBRARY CHANGEOVER: Faye Hanson Memorial Library will soon close for slightly more than a week, so that staff can tackle the gargantuan job of installing a completely new circulation system.

Even though head librarian Judy Gerrud realized the changeover would be a tremendous job, she was staggered by the arrival of three huge cartons containing the more than 20,000 cards which must be individually typed - since each of the 20,000 - plus volumes books in the library requires a new card.

So the closed library doors won't mean the staff is on vacation. Instead, Gerrud, Merib Kruger, Helen Davis, and high school aides Tim Wineland and Carol Kuzma will be working overtime to implement the new system. THE LIBRARY WILL BE CLOSED FROM 1 P.M. SATURDAY, APRIL 19, UNTIL THURSDAY, MAY 1, when it will reopen with new hours.

During the changeover period, the library is declaring amnesty on all overdue books. Just gather up any library books you might have around and drop them in the book pickup at the front door. No fines! No questions asked! All is forgiven!

DeWitt will be minus one of its homey, small town touches, as a result of the new book circulation system. Gone will be our former nice casual method of taking out library books. Instead, everyone will have to fill out new

DeWitt's track team came in sixth in the state Friday, April 4, in the 18th Annual Class C-D Boys Spartan Relays. Ecorse, Constantine, Detroit East Catholic, Fowler and Mason Co. Central finished ahead of DeWitt's 27 points

The two-mile relay team, composed of seniors Dan DeWitt, Doug Wilcox, Kent Gartside and sophomore Eric Trudden, came in first at 8:34.07. Dan DeWitt was second with 4:39.82 in the Mile Run, while Doug Fall, Kent Gartside, Jeff Simmer, and Dave Unger were third in the sprint medley relay at 2:37.47. The DeWitt team also took third place in the distance medley relay with 11:15.65.

Swim Sessions to Begin For Elementary Students

Do you want to help your youngsters become better swimmers? A series of swim lessons will begin next week which could provide that opportunity.

The DeWitt Swim Club will sponsor two "Learn To Swim Better" sessions at the High school pool beginning the week of April 21. Classes are open to all grade school children who want to improve their swimming skills.

CITY COUNCIL NOTES

Appearing at city council Monday night, Board of Review chairman Norman Farnum reported that the board had heard 180 tax appeals during the week-long session.

As a result of his report, Mayor Lynn Thayer appointed a committee to meet with Manitron Assessing Services to discuss reassessing a portion of the city. Farnum, Thayer and administrative aide Bob Peterson will serve on the committee.

Council approved the preliminary plat for Wayne Baum's Jason Estates with the provision that Baum provide an emergency temporary easement across his Schavey Road property for city use. The plat plans no longer include the cul de sac to which the city had objected, and Baum's proposed Jenny Layne will extend north parallel to Schavey Road.

DeWitt Building Authority chairman Austin Knapp voiced hopes that construction on city hall expansion could begin this spring, as soon as the necessary bonds are sold. Estimated completion date for the project would then be mid-September.

The mayor, Peterson and city engineer Orla McGuire are still conducting talks with DeWitt Township on their proposed water agreement. In other action, council approved Firearms Ordinance 102 on second reading, as well as Zoning Ordinance 103, which will become effective June 1.

CHURCH CENTENNIAL: Gunnisonville United Methodist Church is getting an early start on plans for their 1987 centennial celebration and Lois Baumer is coordinating the committee.

The church building itself will be 100 years old, Baumer said, but the Gunnisonville community is older than that, dating back to the 1833 arrival of Elihu Gunnison here from New York state. The nation's 1976 bicentennial helped local folks do some delving into the area's history. They know, for instance, that Gunnisonville once had a general store and post office (although the post office existed for only four years until rural routes came onto the scene), as well as a uniformed band.

The present schoolhouse across Clark Road from the church is the fifth building on that spot, having replaced earlier log cabins which burned. Gunnisonville School, Baumer explained, was

Cropsey Reveals Court Candidacy

Michigan Senate Judiciary Chairman Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, announced his candidacy for the 3rd District of the Michigan Court of Appeals last week.

Cropsey, 33, who had previously revealed that he would not seek a second Senate term, was the sixth announced candidate for the post.

He also graduated from Bob Jones University and Cooley Law School. He and his father, state Sen. Harmon Cropsey, R-Decatur, have served together in both legislative chambers.

Cropsey was instrumental two years ago in revamping the state's district courts, raising their jurisdiction ceilings from issues of $600 to $1,500. He also helped to pass a 1983 anti-obscenity measure, which is still under test in federal courts.

MIES EXHIBIT HERE: If you want to admire quality work done by industrial ed students, plan to stop in at DeWitt High School gym next Saturday, April 26, between 8 am and noon.

DeWitt will be host for the Michigan Industrial Education Society's regional fair and instructor Ray Unger expects at least 500 top-notch projects to be entered in 11 categories of graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, etc.

"Actually, there are 58 different groupings in which they can enter work," Unger points out, "because it's broken down into black and white photography, color photography, and various other areas in each category."

Unger, who has attended the Michigan meetings for 18 years and went to the Ohio contests before moving here, is top man in this year's planning department. Elected MIES Area Regional Administrative Officer last year (in addition to being voted regional Teacher of the Year), he is in charge of the regional industrial education fair.

Exhibitors will set up their entries in the high school gym on Friday for judging that evening. Unger's students have been printing the program for the fair and that program will be entered in the competition. After the judging, two students who are working together on the project, will print an insert for the program listing names of winners in the 58 categories, which will be available for distribution at the fair Saturday morning.

REPEAT VOWS: There was a neat twist to the story, when Dick and Lucille Smeage renewed their marriage vows before Fr. David Stotenbur Saturday, April 12, at the 5 pm Mass in St. Jude Church.

Twenty-five years before on April 8, 1961, when Dick Smeage claimed Lucille Barnefske as his bride at St. Paul Church in Owosso, Mary Stotenbur, Fr. Stotenbur's mother, had played the organ music, and his father, David, had sung at their wedding.

This anniversary was a joyous occasion, with Smeages' children giving a reception for them at the church after Mass. The couple, who live in S. Geneva Dr., have a son Richard and daughter Theresa.

The pair's wedding attendants, who came from out of town for the celebration, included best man Gerald Maiké of Chesaning and maid of honor Jean Williams, Carson City; Arthur Gall, Montrose, and Patricia McAvo, Owosso. Dick's mother, Mary Smeage, was present from New Lothrop, as were his brother-in-law and sister.

TOWNSHIP MINUTES

The Towner Road Development Company's sand mining pit on Turner Road is closed and inoperable now, as a result of action taken Monday night by DeWitt Charter Township trustees, who voted 6-0 to revoke the company's operating permit.

Area residents had been worried about contamination of their wells, even last year when previous pit operator David Schlegel had received permission to mine sand below the water level. Discovery last month of oil-soaked blocks from Oldsmobile construction, which had been dumped there, had reactivated local anxieties. Trustees had then temporarily rescinded Towner's permit while the Michigan Department of Natural Resources dug several holes at the pit to check for illegal dumpage.

Trustees decided to hire Pamela Matevich of St. Johns, as township parks and recreation director, after receiving Jean Cook's resignation. Matevich, currently a preschool teacher at Parkwood Branch YMCA in East Lansing, earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Community Recreation from Central Michigan University. She

SCHOOL BOARD ACTION

DeWitt Board of Education extended special congratulations to Middle School instructor Larry Arbanas, who has been selected as one of three teachers to go to Japan for the summer and fall semesters. Arbanas has been intensively studying Japanese language and culture in preparation for participating in the Michigan-Shiga (Japan) Teacher Exchange Program.

print an insert for the program listing names of winners in the 58 categories, which will be available for distribution at the fair Saturday morning.

Unfortunately, this year's program book for the DHS musical show "Annie" will be competing against the fair program in the same category.

Industrial ed entries will come in from students in Region 8's five counties - Livingston, Shiawassee, Ingham, Eaton and Clinton. Projects will compete at four levels: seventh and eighth grade; ninth and tenth grade; 11th and 12th grade, and a vocational category.

Fifteen to 18 DHS students have been helping with fair arrangements, printing badge tops for ribbons, making signs for the various sections and working on projects. Unger oversees industrial education, graphics, woodworking and yearbook; instructor Mike Soltysiak handles electricity, electronics and consumer auto classes at the high school.

Students and teachers, of course, hope that some of their projects will qualify for the state MIES fair to be held May 1-2 in Traverse City. The four best entries from each of 18 MIES regions are judged at the state level.

Unger continues to be impressed with the quality of student work entered in the fairs, since he says they represent "A, B, C and D schools of all classes and sizes in Michigan."

And he repeats his invitation to the public to take advantage of this opportunity to view some outstanding student creative handiwork this coming Saturday morning at the high school.

MICHIGAN WEEK HONOR: Do you have a nominee for the 1986 DeWitt Citizen of the Year?

If you do, the City of DeWitt would like to hear from you - before the end of the month. Deadline for nominations is Wednesday, April 30.

The person selected as DeWitt City's 1986 Citizen of the Year will be honored on May 19, Mayor Exchange day in DeWitt. The three member selection committee is Katie Verspoor, Jean Newman and Dorothy Alfred.

The Citizen of the Year award was instituted in 1984 to honor those individuals who had contributed their time and talents to the City. Former Citizens of the Year included: Bertha Lennemann (1982), Arthur Newman (1983), Clarence Fuerstenau (1984) and Willard Reed (1985).

Anyone wishing to submit nominations is asked to send a letter or 100 words or less to the City stating specific reasons why they are nominating their candidate. The person nominated need not be a DeWitt City resident, but they must have contributed significantly to the betterment of the City either individually or through organizations. There is no age limit for nominees.

Final selection will be based on the nominees' qualifications and contributions, not on the number of nominations submitted or the total numbers of signatures per candidate. People are encouraged to re-submit the names of those previously nominated but not selected.

Letters of nomination can either be dropped off or mailed to the City Offices at 414 E. Main St., DeWitt. Deadline for nominations is Wednesday, April 30th.

Two school board candidates have filed for the two positions on the Board of Education - incumbent Dr. William G. Schaar Jr., W. Howe Dr., and Dick F. Smeage, S. Geneva Dr., who will run for the post now held by Carol Haag. The June 9 election will take place in Fuerstenau School gym. Named election inspectors were Genevieve Drouin, Esther Klaver, Joan Kurkowski and Eleanor McKinney.

The board authorized a Middle School summer enrichment program in English and mathematics, approving employment of two teachers for the program and setting a fee of $30 per student. Since the developmental kindergarten evaluation was positive, they voted to test all incoming kindergarten students and continue the D.K. program for next year.

John Schultz will retire May 5 after 16 years of custodial service to the school district; the resignation of Joanne Johnson, high school librarian currently on leave of absence, was also accepted. Debbie Rambow has been selected to fill a part-time special education aide position at Scott School.

Girl Scouts to Observe Leader Appreciation Day

Tuesday, April 22, is Girl Scout Leader Day - a time to recognize those hardworking leaders, who spend so many hours at this volunteer job and do not receive a great deal of recognition.

DeWitt's 185 Girl Scouts and 14 troupes are particularly proud of Barbara Bond and Marilyn Boyd, two leaders who are in their 13th year of working with local Girl Scouts.

The two women started in Girl Scouts when their daughters, Patti Bond and Kathy Boyd, were in first grade and continued with Troop 441 through the ensuing years.

"We were both green as grass - Marilyn had some Campfire Girl experience, and I had never been in scouting - but we learned with the girls," Barb Bond recalls with a smile.

Patti and Kathy went through scout ranks, from Brownies to cadettes to senior scouts, during their 12 years in DeWitt Schools. Both graduated from DeWitt High School in 1985.

Bond and Boyd were proud of their scouts, who continued on through grade school, middle school and high school, and enjoyed watching them grow from little girls in pigtails to responsible young adults. As they neared the end of their DHS junior year, seven of the troop members earned the Silver Award and Teresa Bordui earned Girl Scouting's highest award, the Gold Award, in her senior year.

Bond and Boyd earned their laurels too, through the years of crafts, activities and camping, even though they insist that the weather automatically shifted to "cold, rain and snow" whenever they planned a camp out.

The two have taken a turn at many scout posts. Boyd was DeWitt Area Service Unit Director for several years and Bond currently holds the title. The Michigan Capitol Girl Scout Council covers three counties which are divided into areas, Bond explains, and DeWitt's 14 troops are in Area 12.

Both leaders are very proud of the dedicated leaders in DeWitt's active scout troops.

Co-leaders for two troops of first grade Brownies are: Pam Dutcher and Marie Henning:

Stevie Bovie is Grade 3 Troop 390 leader; Sharol Mazur and Linda Pierce share leader honors with Grade 3's Troop 329. Sue Kemler and Debbie Christensen lead Troop 48, fourth graders, while Kathy Ruble and Debbie Kenrick have Troop 86, Grade 4.

The past year's activities for local Girl Scouts have run the gamut. Among their projects have been Thanksgiving Care Baskets, toys for DeWitt's Developmental Kindergarten Class, ice skating and roller skating, Christmas caroling, bazaar participation, visits to airport, planetarium and Pumpkin Patch, planting tulip bulbs for city, decorating store windows, cleaning up Riverside Park, adopting a shut-in, putting up a Christmas tree in Clinton Memorial Hospital and taking it down.

The first Giant Sleepover, held at the Memorial Building, was an outstanding success with 90 girls participating.

After 13 years of Girl Scouting, leaders Bond and Boyd advocate women becoming involved in scout leadership and staying with a troop. It gets easier each year, they say, and keeps one closer to the girls, as leaders and scouts share learning experiences together.

FARM NOTES

As the farm economy weakens, many farmers or farm family members may look for off-farm jobs to supplement their income.

Searching for a part-time or full-time job can be a frustrating experience for many. To help ease the transition and point individuals in the direction of well-established job training and placement agencies, the Cooperative Extension Service, in conjunction with the Intermediate School District, ManPower and the Lansing Tri-County Employment Training and Training Administration, is offering a workshop.

This workshop will be held Monday, April 21, at 9 a.m. in the Clinton County Intermediate School, Conference Room 3, 4 miles south of St. Johns on US 27.
