DEWITT AHEAD: Interstate travelers will know where DeWitt is now. Several big new green and white highway signs now say "DeWitt Keep Left" and "DeWitt" with a directional arrow pointing ahead on westbound US-127 approaching US-27 from Lansing/East Lansing.

In the last few weeks, the Michigan Department of Transportation has remedied their previous oversight, courtesy of a gentle nudge from Kurt Klemens, administrative assistant to the City of DeWitt mayor and city council. Klemens had called in March to ask MDOT about rectifying the error.

When the segment of interstate highway through DeWitt and Watertown townships was completed last summer, drivers had a choice of MDOT signs inviting them either to exit for US-27 North (Clare) or continue on "South-27 to Charlotte and Fort Wayne." There was no mention of DeWitt until you drove under US-27 North and then continued on to the DeWitt Road exit, where a DeWitt sign and arrow beckoned you northward.

Last year, so that friends and relatives coming to visit and using the new highway for the first time would not be confused, we sent homemade maps, asking them to ignore the "Charlotte/Fort Wayne" invitations and continue on to the next exit at DeWitt Road. These new signposts have alleviated that difficulty.

Of course, MDOT sign-painters have given

Families Needed To Host Foreign Exchange Students

Sue Mox of DeWitt and Tony Drago of Bath have been appointed local coordinators by the International Education Forum, a nonprofit student organization with headquarters in San Ramon, CA. They will work to place foreign exchange students in area homes.

Mox is coordinator for DeWitt, Fulton, and Lansing schools; Drago, coordinator for the remainder of Clinton County. IEF is one of the leaders in the student exchange field and limits participation to no more than 500 students yearly. The majority of exchange students are from Germany, Spain, and Japan, with 22 other foreign countries represented.

A $50 a month income deduction from federal taxes is also allowed since the student attends high school full-time. IEF points out that the host family receives the benefits of exposure to another culture, language, and lifestyle which increases their international understanding.

Township Recall Election Set For August 18

DeWitt Township voters will be asked to vote in a special recall election on Tuesday, August 18.

CLINTON WILL ASK VOTERS FOR LARGER COUNTY JAIL

The issue of building a new jail will once more be presented to Clinton County voters this fall. Clinton County board of commissioners voted at their Tuesday meeting to put the one-mill proposal before voters in a Tuesday, November 3 election.

Many prisoners now have to be boarded in nearby counties/communities, with Clinton County footing a hefty annual board bill, because the current jail has a 42-person capacity. Average inmate count is closer to 60, commissioners point out.

The measure was defeated by only 79 votes on last year's ballot. Since it had been overwhelmingly turned down in 1977 and 1982 elections, commissioners were encouraged to go to the voters one more time.

The proposed one mill would bring in about $12 million over 20 years, which would cover costs of the planned $6 million new jail as well as interest on the bonds. Tentative plans call for a 100-cell jail.

Commissioners have asked Gus Harrison, Inc. and Landmark Design Group, Inc., Lansing consultants and architects, to present plans by August. They also took an option to buy 60 acres on Townsend Road east of St. Johns owned by Bill Buggs Jr. for the proposed jail site. The acreage will cost $90,000 if the millage is approved.

GOVERNMENT CLOSE-UP: Governmental processes are much clearer to three DeWitt High School seniors - Matt Bailey, Shawn Bowen and Geoff Brown - since they spent a week attending Boys State on the Michigan State University campus last month.

Sponsored by American Legion posts, Boys (and Girls) State programs take students right to the heart of government by directly involving them in the electoral process. Some 1,000 Boys Staters spent the first two days attending conventions of the fictional Federalist and Nationalist parties. Then, they ran for offices themselves, handling their own campaigns. Once national politics were taken care of, they continued on electing county and city officials.

"It's a lot different when you participate, running for an office," commented Bowen who was elected to the county court of appeals, "You really sweat it out."

Brown said he had "a lot better idea of what government is about," after losing his race for county secretary and then being appointed city attorney. In the latter position, he helped to pass ordinances controlling litter in his town and to make decisions such as selling a recreation complex to a Holiday Inn.

In addition to the actual government experience of working as a judge and learning many of the little technicalities, Bailey liked sitting in on trials in Lansing courts. Students also had opportunities to listen to U.S. Sen. Don Reigle and other officials from both Republican

Proposed Elementary School Moves to Schavey Road

DeWitt's proposed new elementary school will be on Schavey Road, instead of the long-planned DeWitt Road site, school board officials agreed after hearing the architect's presentation at last Tuesday's special meeting.

SCHOOL BOARD COVERS FULL AGENDA

NAME NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Dr. Therese A. Davis of Sparta will be the new superintendent of schools for the DeWitt School District. DeWitt Board of Education named Davis as their unanimous choice at Tuesday's special meeting, thus concluding several months of intensive work, wherein they narrowed the 60 candidates down to finalists and conducted interviews.

Davis has been superintendent of Sparta Area Schools from 1979 to the present. The new superintendent, who received her Ph.D from Michigan State University, currently lives in Sparta with her husband and their two college-age daughters. Following her acceptance of the final contract, she will start work here on August 10.

July 17 is the deadline for applicants to the elementary principal post vacated by Bruce MacDonald. To date, 37 applications have been received. The board hopes to have the top five or six candidates identified by July 29 and then to involve the incoming superintendent in the final selection process.

ELECT BOARD OFFICERS

Glenn Tarrant will again serve as president of the DeWitt Board of Education, acceding to members' wishes at the July 7 special board meeting. In the Tuesday election, James Osborn was elected vice president; Ronald Johnson and William Schaar, reelected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Board members took time out from a full agenda to recognize David Harfst, retiring board member who had just concluded a four-year term. Harfst received his official name plate, a distinguished service plaque from the Michigan Association of School Boards and a plaque from DeWitt Board of Education, in recognition and appreciation of his service to DeWitt students and community. Tarrant also welcomed new board member John Stone on the board's behalf.

A capacity audience again overflowed the Griswold Building meeting room for the board's organizational meeting and building program discussion. John Jensen of Wakeley Associates outlined four possible building options for the new elementary building, listing advantages and disadvantages of each. He pointed out that long-range plans had placed the elementary school on DeWitt Road for the last decade. However, the recent construction of US-127/South-27, which had taken school property at the south end of the site, severely limited access to the land.

Using 10 acres at the Schavey Road end of the Middle School property for the elementary school would be more cost effective, Jensen said, citing proximity of water, sewer, and gas lines and potential for nearby students to walk to the school.

Architects' Options A and B located the new school west of the Middle School. In Option A, the bus garage/maintenance facility would be located southeast of the elementary building in a tree-screened area some distance back from Schavey Road. Option B would place the bus facility north of the football stadium nearer to the high school. Wakely Associates favor these first two options and the school board agreed with their recommendations.

Option C would place the school building on DeWitt Road with bus garage still near the high school. Option D would put both elementary school and bus garage on DeWitt Road property. Major disadvantages of the DeWitt Road site are: 1) no sewer or utilities present yet and high estimated costs of securing same; 2) questionable access from the property for bus and other traffic, since the road crests on both directions from the proposed driveway, creating a blind spot for drivers; 3) heavier traffic on DeWitt Road since advent of the freeway.

The Mormon Church in Salt Lake City stores microfilmed copies of its vast collection of genealogical records in underground vaults -- referred to by some residents as "The Mormon Root Cellar".

The board accepted the recommendations of E & V Construction Management in awarding bids to re-roof the various school buildings. Frank Figgels and Mick Barney of E & V presented and explained the following bids, which were accepted after some discussion: Scott School to J & L Roofing, $49,131; Fuerstenau School, Roofing Specialties, Inc., $58,092; DeWitt High School, Roofing Specialties, Inc., $102,761.

Another special board meeting was set for Monday, July 20, at 7 p.m. to review and gain approval of final remodelling plans for the Scott School building. The builders then hope to be able to mail out bid information by July 24.

PARENTS NEED TO CHECK CHOICES IN CHILD CARE

By: Joanne Currier
Program Director
The Learning Tree

Child care is becoming one of our nation's most pressing issues. The June 22, 1987 edition of Time reported that in 1986, over nine million children in the United States participated in some form of child care. To further demonstrate the importance of this issue, at least three of the 1988 presidential candidates have included child care on their campaign platforms.

As child care needs increase, so does the need to communicate with parents in order to provide them with information about child care options. Some extended care options are: family child care homes, group child care homes, child care centers, and after school programs. After fulfilling licensing requirements, the Department of Social Services will issue a license to these child care providers, although the license must be periodically renewed. Other options for short term care may be preschool, nursery school, play groups, and in-home child care. Regardless of which option chosen, parents need to feel comfortable about the quality of the care their child will receive. But how do parents make the child care choice?

Consideration should be given to the child's age and developmental needs. Is the child an infant? A preschooler? Developmentally, infancy is when children form their feelings of emotional well-being, security, and trust. The development of security, especially the ability emotional well-being, security, and trust. The development of security, especially the ability to be secure in strange situations, is generally associated with a strong maternal bond. Infant child care in a center requires one caregiver to every three infants. In a family child care, there may be up to six children for every one caregiver, but no more than two children under the age of one year. In group child care homes there may be up to twelve children with two caregivers.

For preschoolers, developmental emphasis should be on self-help skills, socialization, and cooperation. In a child care center, children can explore a wide variety of learning and social experiences through educational play. Children engage in activities that provide a daily balance of indoor/outdoor, active/quiet, large muscle/small muscle, individual/group (large and small) activities, and self-initiated/staff-initiated.

Before making a final choice, parents should also consider questions such as these: Is the caregiver or center licensed by the Department of Social Services? Are health and safety concerns addressed? Does the caregiver have training in child development? What is the cost? Can the caregiver or center provide references? Am I comfortable with this choice?

When considering child care in a home or in a center, parents may want to use a "quality" checklist. Parents magazine (August 1986) provides a comprehensive list which addresses a wide range of concerns. The Department of Social Services can provide parents with a list of licensed care options.

Making the child care choice requires time, consideration, and investigation. Whatever choice parents make, they need to first, and foremost, consider the well-being of their child.

TOWNSHIP INITIATES FIRE STATION PLANS

DeWitt Charter Township is to have a new Herbison Road fire station in its future, trustees decided at their July 13 meeting. Board members approved $2500 for architects to draw up preliminary plans for a fire station to be built on township-owned property west of US-27 on Herbison Road.

Guardian Angels area director Patrick Bohan and national founder Curtis Sliwa of New York City explained the work of their protective organization and asked for local support at the meeting. The pair left informative materials, which any interested citizens can pick up at the township hall.

A July 9 accident at the corner of Clark and DeWitt roads caused further discussion at the meeting. A number of traffic accidents have occurred at the intersection, particularly since DeWitt Road north of Clark has been widened to accommodate traffic from nearby entrance and exit ramps for South US-27, and there have been repeated requests for installation of a traffic light.

Most of the accidents involved out-of-town drivers unfamiliar with the area and the intersection's odd configuration, Clerk Greg Whitlock pointed out. Township trustees voted to request Clinton County to install a flashing light at the troublesome point.

Discussions on burning barrels have stalled passage of a fire code amendment to Ordinance 45 for some time, but the matter was

SCHOOL BOARD NEWS

DeWitt Board of Education members deferred action on the school district sharing costs of the new Wilson Street sidewalk at their July 7 meeting. The city had recently installed the sidewalk on the east side of Wilson near Scott Elementary School in response to requests last fall from a citizen's group, which cited dangers of walking children having to use the heavily trafficked street.

A letter to the board from Kurt Klemens, city administrative assistant, had mentioned the possibility of sharing the $10,850 costs. The necessity of building a chain link fence and retaining wall along a deep ditch beside the sidewalk has added to the construction cost.

Interim superintendent Harold Springsteen was asked to write a letter requesting that Klemens send a letter to the board with more specific information.

In other action, the board awarded the 1987-88 bread contract to low bidder, Butternut Bread Company, and lighting supplies bid to Michigan Electric. Meeting schedules for the coming year will remain the same - regular board meetings on the second Monday of the month at 7 p.m. in Griswold Administration Building. Membership in both Michigan Association of School Boards and Michigan High School Athletic Association was approved, as were student handbooks for elementary, middle, and high schools.

Personnel vacancies noted on July 7 included: 2 fifth grade teachers, a building secretary, and Chapter I aide (2½ hour) at Fuerstenau; building principal/transportation director at Scott Elementary; 1 sixth grade teacher in middle school; part-time art, science and math openings for fall classes in Community Education; a transportation clerk-dispatcher.

The board accepted the resignation of Barbara Butler, clerk-dispatcher. Temporary coverage of transportation supervisory duties (with departure of principal Bruce MacDonald and Barbara Butler) were delegated to the school administration. Because bus routing, Township residents may use burning barrels under certain circumstances, to burn paper, leaves and branches only - no trash. However, no burning is allowed at all from Memorial Day through Labor Day in platted subdivisions.

CANDO (Clinton Area New Development Organization) received township approval for two more years, as board members agreed to continue the contract and pay the annual dues of $2,238. DeWitt Township will also advertise for a full time assessor instead of contracting with various companies for part-time assessing help as they have been doing recently.

In other action, trustees voted to contribute $700 for a park fence and up to $1,000 for trophies for the softball program. They approved $100 to purchase surgical gloves for policemen to use when assisting at accidents and $120 so that Sgt. Larry Domeney may attend an FBI refresher class at Mackinac Island.

PARTY FETES READERS

Some 50 children in grades one through five, who signed up for the Parade of Readers last month at Faye Hanson Memorial Library and who have read the minimum number of books required, will be treated to a party at 10 a.m. Monday, July 20, at the library.

A costumed storyteller will entertain the youngsters and a drawing will be held for books/prizes. Young readers filled out a form giving their opinion of each book read and these forms are entered in the prize drawing. Only one prize will be allowed per child.

The library is closed Mondays, making this an ideal time for the party. Punch and cookies will be served.

The River City Boys will be performing from 8:20 - 10 pm on the stage and there'll be lots of room for dancing as well as visiting with friends.

Members and leaders have been helping to create some special displays for this celebration and there will be displays of early Fair exhibits. Nearly 2,000 people are expected to be involved in the many different Fair activities scheduled this year.

Although the Fair doesn't have a carnival, there are many attractions for Fair goers and a family atmosphere prevails. The Baby Animal Tent is always a highlight for both young and old visitors during the entire week.

Tuesday will be full of various judging activities and programs and there'll be a special hands-on activity for young Fair goers. The Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program will sponsor

The Gold Group members are ages 13-18, and provide inspiration and leadership to younger swimmers in the club. Seven Gold Group athletes participated in the Okemos meet: Belinda Davis (1st: 100 Free, 50 Free, Medley Relay), Denise Erley (1st: 100 Fly, 200 I.M., Medley Relay), Carla Dudash (1st: 100 Breast, Medley Relay; 2nd: 50 Free), Molly Arney (1st: Medley Relay; 2nd: 100 Free; 4th: 50 Free), Tom Barnard (2nd: 200 I.M.), Tom Newhall (1st: 50 Free, 200 I.M.; 2nd: 100 Breast), Pete McNamara (1st: 200 Free, 100 Back; 4th: 100 Breast).

Coaches Juan Tavares and Mike Keegan accompanied the top club swimmers to Midland on July 17-19 for the Michigan Junior Olympics. This meet is an exciting weekend of outdoor events in a 10-lane, 50-meter (Olympic size) pool, and serves as a qualifying meet for swimmers who will advance to the state long-course championships.

In 1986, DeWitt sent only two swimmers to the Junior Olympics meet. This year, ten swimmers traveled to Midland. The increased number of qualifying swimmers is directly due to the excellent recruiting and coaching efforts of Keegan and Tavares, whose instruction and enthusiasm are resulting in a consistent improvement in athletes and the total swimming program in DeWitt.

Successful Blood Drive

Carolyn Crego prepares to donate a pint of blood during the blood drive which is sponsored annually by the DeWitt Fire Department and Women's Auxiliary. Auxiliary member Dannel Ballard reported that 76 pints of blood were given by area donors during Tuesday afternoon's drive.

OVER THE TOP: Last Tuesday's Red Cross blood drive, sponsored by DeWitt City Fire Department and Women's Auxiliary, went far beyond everyone's expectations, going over the set goal of 60 pints. Eighty-five donors volunteered their services and DeWitt's net total was 76 pints of blood donated.

The sponsors, who provided the manpower to assist the American Red Cross mobile unit that day - with registration of donors, health checks, serving juice, liquids, cookies and/or sandwiches - extend their thanks to all those who took time out on a hot day to donate the much-needed blood.

SUMMER TRAVEL: Mike and Mel Krohn of West Geneva Drive went to the Poconos early this month to mark their 10th wedding anniversary. They then detoured a few hundred miles to pick up Mel's sister, Marcene Murphy and her baby daughter, Danielle, in Whitinsville, MA, bringing them back to DeWitt for a family reunion.

Meanwhile, their brother, Mike Sickles, and his wife, Theresa, had driven here from their home outside of Houston, TX, to spend a little more than a week with parents, Don and Barb Sickles of Schavey Road. Mike took advantage of the visit to show his bride a bit of Michigan scenery, taking a few days to drive through northern Michigan and into the upper peninsula.

In the summer of 1836, families that were to survive in the wilds of Michigan were working every day of the week with a short respite on Sunday to plant their crops on the virgin, often rocky, soil. A little more than 200,000 hardy families lived in the territory, which was declared a state in January 1837. Several of those original families have passed on their farms from generation to generation until the present day.

To honor the efforts of these pioneers, Consumers Power Company, in cooperation with the State Historical Commission, is distributing 126 Sesquicentennial markers. Six of the families receiving markers reside in Clinton County. These markers are intended

Liz Wheat had Utah visitors recently in her Hitching Post Road residence, when her son, Jeff, and his wife, Jamie, came in from Provo, UT, for a week's stay. The pair were married May 9 in the Idaho Falls Mormon Temple.

GOING STRONG AT 91: July 20 marked Birthday 91 for former teacher Clara Price, who lives on West Madison Street with her son-in-law and daughter, Ted and Marcella Ward.

Clara, who walks a mile or so daily around downtown DeWitt, stopped in at Sam's Kitchen for a spot of breakfast last Monday and was pleasantly surprised to have waitress Karen Decatur pay for her birthday meal. Well-known for her walking prowess, Clara earned mucho dollars for world hunger this past spring, when she asked local donors for pledges and then walked 55 miles during her tour of the Holy Land.

Born in Howard City, Clara went to Ypsilanti Normal School and earned her life teaching certificate from Mt. Pleasant, now Central Michigan University. She taught in several country schools before teaching kindergarten for 13 years in DeWitt.

Clara and her husband, the late Ray Price, had two other children, Alice Rae Gerlock of Ann Arbor, and Eldon Price of Livonia. Tatting stationery is her favorite hobby, in addition to regular walking.

FOUNDER'S DAY: Former pastors and their families were invited back to First Baptist Church of DeWitt, corner of N. DeWitt and Cutler roads, this past weekend for a two-day Founder's Day celebration. Potluck dinners were held both Saturday and Sunday; former members and the public had been invited to come back for the observance.

Rev. Jerry Cole, an active and well-known member of the DeWitt community during his pastorate here, returned for the event with his family. Rev. Cole was the featured speaker Saturday, telling about his missionary experiences in Taiwan.

markers reside in Clinton County. These markers are intended to be displayed on the lawns of the family farms.

In its infancy, Michigan proved to be a popular place for pioneers. In the statehood decade, between 1830 and 1840, its population grew more rapidly than any other state or territory. One of the families that arrived during the boom are ancestors of Victor J. Clark. In 1834, John (Jonas) Clark purchased the land at 10785 Clark Road, as a land grant from the US Government during the presidency of Andrew Jackson. Victor, now 79, still lives in the family farmhouse which was built in 1848. The Clarks were one of the first families to pioneer in Clinton County. Their farm is the oldest family-held farm in Clinton County.

CITY COUNCIL NOTES

The DeWitt city water project came in for much discussion again at the July 20 council meeting as construction cost was further reduced to $2,345.07 per parcel over a 20-year period. Total cost to be assessed is $752,640.

The special assessment roll has been completed and is now available for residents to look over at city hall. A special hearing on the assessment roll will be held Monday, August 3, in the DeWitt High School auditorium at 7 p.m. preceding the regular council meeting.

While some citizens avow that they do not want the water line or assessment, about 75 city residents are in dire need of city water, according to city administrative aide Kurt Klemens. Some, he said, are completely without water service and must use bottled water.

Austin Knapp, DeWitt Building Authority representative, reported on three site possibilities which DBA members are checking for a fire hall location. The SCCMUA (Southern Clinton County Municipal Utilities Authority) is adapting DeWitt City's minimum standards for sewer construction. Bob Drouin told the council. DeWitt is the only municipality in the SCCMUA which has a set of standards to follow.

Local Swimmers Compete In State Junior Olympics

Thirteen members of the DeWitt Swim Club had a HOT time in Midland on July 17, 18, & 19. They participated in the Michigan Junior Olympics Swim Festival, which features more than 750 of the highest ranked swimmers in the state. The temperature hovered in the 90's throughout the 2½-day meet, and while parents on the sidelines struggled to stay cool, DeWitt swimmers sizzled, recording several career "best times".

DeWitt was represented by Jenny Brown, Mari Fullmer, Kelly Peacock, Pete McNamara, Tom Newhall, Geoff Brown, Tom Barnard, Mike Giesecke, Aimee Decker, Carla Dudash, Denice Erley, Belinda Davis, and coaches Juan Tavares and Mike Keevan. Tavares entered two events at the urging of teenage club members, who accused Tavares of being "over the hill" at age 26, and too old to take on the younger competition. Tavares proved them wrong, though. Despite being the oldest swimmer in the meet, he finished 4th in a field of 101 entrants in the Open 50 Meter Freestyle. He was edged out at the finish by local swimming great Steve Shipps.

Highlights of the weekend for age-group members included first place finishes by Mari Fullmer in the 100 Meter Butterfly (11-12 yr. olds), Aimee Decker in the 100 M. Backstroke (13-18), and Denice Erley in the 100 M. Butterfly (13-18). Fullmer, 12, also recorded a 4th place in the 100 M. Freestyle, and 5th in the 50 M. Freestyle.
