BRIEF MEETINGS: The three remaining trustees, who gather for regular board meetings every other Monday in DeWitt Charter Township, probably have set new records for brevity. The trio - Bruce Angell, Douglas Hammond, and Charles Rademacher - call the meeting to order, duly note that they have no quorum, and then move to adjourn.

Since the August 18 recall, which removed supervisor C. Frank Mann, clerk Greg Whitlock, treasurer Alta Catherine Reed, and trustee Michael Verlinde from office, only the three township trustees remain. Gov. James Blanchard has taken the position that he does not have the authority to appoint interim officials, Angell says, while the township's legal council insists that the governor can name replacements.

How does the township operate? Routine operations continue, Angell points out, but the three trustees cannot authorize any new business. Full and part-time employees continue to handle daily operations under difficult conditions, and Angell or Hammond try to stop at the office each day.

If no appointment is made by the governor, the four DeWitt Township officials cannot be replaced until the November 3 election. Meanwhile, the next regular township board meeting will be held Monday evening, September 14. It's open to the public.

SCHOOL BOARD REPORT

CONSTRUCTION WORK

Site work is now underway at Scott Elementary School, following board approval at a special August 31 meeting of DeWitt Board of Education. Construction work on the new K-3 elementary school unit on Schavey Road is scheduled to begin the end of October.

School board members approved a snow removal agreement for the newly constructed segment of Wilson Street sidewalk near Scott School, which will be sent to DeWitt City Council. The document provides that DeWitt Public School District will remove snow "in reciprocity of the request by the City of DeWitt to assist in the cost of the sidewalk construction", and is contingent upon city liability coverage and approval of the agreement.

In other action, Ruth Ueberroth was named Fuerstenau School secretary; resignations of Christine Fedewa (Scott School playground aide) and Barbara Powell (high school resource room aide) were accepted; seniors Michelle Burgoyne and Kathleen Price were approved as tuition students this year. Burgoyne and Price's families had moved outside the DeWitt School District, but the students had releases from Lansing and Bath school districts.

NEW TEACHERS

Since there are 143 first grade pupils in five classrooms as the fall term begins, DeWitt schools have posted a position for another first grade teacher. Mary Catherine (Cathy) Wheat, a DeWitt High School graduate, has been hired as a kindergarten teacher. Cathy, who received her B.A. degree from Michigan State University, was a substitute teacher here last year and also taught at the Learning Tree Child Development Center in DeWitt.

Four new fifth grade teachers began work last week at Fuerstenau School. James Chester had taught fourth, fifth, and sixth grades in the Howell Public Schools for the past 12 years. A B.A. graduate of Western Michigan University, he has done graduate work at Michigan State University.

Beverly Osborn, who received a B.A. from Michigan State University has been a substitute teacher in DeWitt the past three try to stop at the office each day.

PANTHER BLUE & GOLD: New School Superintendent Terre Davis drew hearty and enthusiastic applause when she visited students at both DeWitt High School and Middle School on opening day, last Tuesday.

The reason? She was trimly attired in smart yellow suit, accented with blue accessories, to represent DeWitt school colors.

GIRL SCOUT NIGHT: Girl Scouts and prospective scouts are invited to attend Girl Scout registration Thursday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m. in DeWitt Memorial Building. Notices are being sent home through the schools about the meeting for girls in grades K through 12.

Daisy, Brownie, Junior, and Cadet scouts may register that night and prospective leaders are also invited to attend. Contact Stevie Bovee, 669-8166, for information on DeWitt Girl Scout programs or registration.

LEMM SCHOOL REUNION: Former students and area residents whose children attended Lemm School will gather at Sleepy Hollow State Park for a 1 p.m. picnic reunion Sunday, September 13.

The old one-room schoolhouse at the corner of Chadwick and Bond Roads in Olive Township educated many generations of children before its closure in 1967. The building later brought $4,175 when it was sold at public auction. Youngsters were then bussed to St. Johns schools.

Information on the reunion can be obtained from Rita Shultz, 669-9708.

PANTS FOUND: A pair of small navy baseball pants (knickers) were left in the game tent after the DeWitt Ox Roast, by someone who worked there that day or who brought children to patronize the game tent.

The owner may call Ginny Hane, 669-3306, to claim his or her property.

Teacher Meets Pupils In Familiar Settings

DeWitt Cooperative Preschool classes will begin September 21, so teacher Stephanie Knapp began making individual trips to the homes of her 55 pupils in late August.

Knapp pays the half-hour visits in order to make the children feel more comfortable, meeting her for the first time in a familiar setting and prepare them for the first day of school. She takes toys and books from the preschool to show the youngsters and "makes them feel really special" with the one-on-one attention.

The teacher visits the home of each of her students in this manner every year, not just those who will be attending for the first time. Anyone interested in obtaining more information about the preschool may contact Kathi Beuerle at 323-9590.

He Vacations In DeWitt

Brother Kurt Munn, who has been in the east since last September, spent a week's vacation in DeWitt and drove one of the city fire department trucks in the ox roast parade.

Munn renewed acquaintances with friends, young and old, around town, worked on some of the vehicles at the fire station, and generally slipped back into the various roles he had filled during his 1964-'72 and 1979-'86 assignments at Portiuncula in the Pines retreat house on Main Street.

The Franciscan brother is now stationed at Holy Assumption Church in Roebling, N.J. There, he drives the parish school bus, teaches physical education for grades 4 through 8, oversees the altar boys, and of course, works with the volunteer fire department, on which he's rescue squad first lieutenant.

five years, borrowers will lose the tax deductibility of interest paid on consumer loans. That makes leasing more attractive. Interest paid on a qualifying home equity loan remains fully tax deductible, but many consumers don't want to use a house as security for a loan to buy a car.

Why borrow? Why lease? You can't generalize about borrowing versus leasing costs. You have to compare specific loans and leases to be able to say one is cheaper than the other. Here are the pros and cons:

When you borrow your down payment and loan payments build equity, a form of forced savings. This equity has cash value when you sell your car or trade it in. The owner of a "paid for" is freed of monthly payments. A lessee faces them indefinitely.

On the other hand, leasing is ideal for people who like to trade cars before they need major maintenance. Payments are based on the expectation that a car will be worth 25%-45% of its purchase price when the lease ends. Cars normally depreciate to that the typical lifetime of a U.S. car is 12 years.

Leasing is also ideal for people who need a car and maximum cash flow. You avoid a large down payment. You also arrange smaller periodic payments. Dollar for dollar, you can get more car with a lease than a loan. Of course, lower payments may tempt you into adding costly options you don't need.

CORNER GARDEN

The rains came, the lawn became a lush green, a deep dark green, except for a few areas where the grass is coarse and not the same green color. The name of the different grass is crabgrass.

At this time of year, crabgrass is a difficult grass to control. Crabgrass is an annual; it grows, seeds, and dies within one year. Controlling crabgrass is best and easiest if done in the spring - between April 15 and May 15. Use any of the good commercial products available; they will kill the crabgrass as the seed germinates.

Enjoy the lush green now, even with the crabgrass; it is much better than the brown of the hot dry summer.

Keep Communication Lines With Young People Open

Substance abuse has become a major problem for America's young people. Studies have shown that 61 percent of high school seniors have used drugs, mostly drugs that they purchased in school.

"There is increased substance abuse, especially of alcohol," says M.S.U. 4-H program leader Leah Hooper.

Substance abuse is not limited to certain age groups or geographic areas. The percentage of students using drugs by the sixth grade has tripled over the last decade, and drug use is increasing in rural areas.

"It's estimated that drugs and substance abuse are in every middle school and high school in the state," Hooper says. "Kids in very rural areas of Michigan can be as susceptible to substance abuse as those in urban areas, especially alcohol abuse, because alcohol may be more available to them than hard drugs."

Although no single reason can account for this wide-spread epidemic, major influences on an adolescent's choice to experiment with controlled substances are peer pressure, low self-esteem and the desire to self-medicate.

"There is a tremendous amount of peer pressure on kids to say that they have tried drugs to be accepted," Hooper says, "and those kids who feel low self-esteem are the most vulnerable."

When an individual faces a combination of pressures, including lack of parental understanding and problems with school, he or she may self-medicate as a means of temporary escape from those pressures. Many parents feel powerless to prevent or cope with drug- and alcohol-related problems in their children.

FAMILY FOCUS

By Dawn Harris

The kids have just returned to school and already children and parents are feeling the results of peer pressure. Going back to school meant buying a certain brand of tennis shoes, baggy jeans with pockets on the side and a tee-shirt. It's common for children to want to dress, look, and act the same. Unfortunately, sometimes those actions include taking drugs, drinking and smoking.

As a parent there are some skills you can teach your child to help him/her overcome peer pressure. The first step is to teach your child to say "no." It's not easy for any of us to say "no"; often we don't say it because we are afraid of hurting others' feelings. Sometimes, however, a firm clear "no" is needed to get your point across. It will also help if you can look the other person directly in the eye and speak in a convincing tone of voice. That way the other person is sure you have made up your mind.

If saying "no" doesn't work, then your child must try something else. Instead of

Follow ATV Safety Rules

Since 1984 the Consumer Product Safety Commission has been issuing safety alerts warning people against the dangers of all-terrain vehicles (ATV)-small motorized cycles with 3 or 4 soft tires designed to maneuver across fields, sand dunes, and snow.

ATV's popularity and sales have soared. Last year, more than 83,000 riders suffered injuries requiring emergency hospital care. Almost half of those killed or severely injured were children under age 16.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has recommended a recall of three-wheeled ATV's and all ATV's made for children. Four-wheelers are generally considered safer because they're less likely to tip over.

Observe the following safety rules while using ATV's: --ATV's have some unique handling characteristics. Beginning riders should receive training from certified instructors and should practice first on a level area and then in a more

Through no foolproof method of deterring children from experimenting with illegal substances exists, Hooper maintains that keeping open the lines of communication between parents and children is important.

"The chances of children having substance abuse problems are lessened if they have good relationships with their parents and if they have high self-esteem," Hooper says.

To help children feel good about themselves, Hooper suggests they participate in 4-H or other youth programs outside the classroom. These activities give children the chance to work at projects that not only have a beginning, but contain a process with tangible results and so allow them to feel a sense of accomplishment. Youth programs provide a supportive peer environment that also contributes to youngsters' feelings of self-worth.

It is helpful to discuss the possible options involved with substance abuse. This helps a child think about how he or she might respond in various situations when substances are available.

Changes in a child's behavior may signal normal adolescent growth or serve as warning signs of substance abuse. Mood swings and lower grades are common, but when they are coupled with changes in friends, dilated or reddened eyes, and increased levels of thirst, parents should be on the alert.

When parents notice destructive behavior patterns, it is important to confront their child with an attitude of love and concern rather than accusations and anger, which may shut down communication completely.

It is never too soon, or too late, for parents to open the lines of communication with their children.

you have made up your mind.

If saying "no" doesn't work, then your child must try something else. Instead of making excuses for his/her opinion, why not teach your child to turn the pressure around. The child might say something like, "your pressuring is making me feel like you don't respect me." This way the other person realizes how uncomfortable he/she is making your child.

If turning the pressure around results in continued harassment, then the situation is getting out of hand and your child needs to get out of there. Teach your child that it's okay to leave the scene if the peer pressure is too great. There is nothing wrong with turning around and walking away.

These three steps are ones that have been taught to 7th, 8th, and 9th graders all over Clinton County through the "How to Say No" program. It does take some practice however to put the techniques into practice.

It would help your child to act out a few scenes that he/she might face this coming school year. Remember a little preventive medicine often replaces a lot of future trouble.

Beginning riders should receive training from certified instructors and should practice first on a level area and then in a more difficult but controlled environment before riding an ATV in rough or unfamiliar terrain.

--All operators, including those with experience, must continue to practice and develop their skills. Special attention needs to be paid in anticipating steering maneuvers and turns.

--Children should use motorized ATVs only after receiving instruction, always under adult supervision, and only when they are old enough (at least 12) to safely handle them. Children should not drive adult-sized vehicles.

--Always wear an approved protective helmet and other protective gear. Seventy-five (75%) of all drivers with head injuries were not wearing a helmet. --ATVs are designed for one rider only. Do not ride double.

Do not use ATVs on paved roads or streets. Vehicles are not designed to maneuver on paved surfaces. --Follow the manufacturer's guidance for use, maintenance, and pre-use checks. Consult owner's instruction manual.

PAPAL MASS: St. Jude parishioners, who wanted to attend Pope John Paul II's Sunday Mass at the Pontiac Silverdome Sunday afternoon, had turned in their names earlier for a drawing by which the 20 tickets allotted to St. Jude were distributed.

Winners in the drawing were Dave and Joyce Bordui, Wayne and Virginia Brown, Tom Flynn, Bob and Betty Keusch, Tom and Joan Kurkowski, Cecilia Parks, Robert and Margaret Stewart, Dave and Janice Thelen, John and Jackie Urbain, Greg and Margaret White.

The Thursday before the pope arrived in the United States, Fr. David Stotenbur, St. Jude pastor, appeared on Channel 6's "Six O'Clock News", answering queries about the impending visit, and then fielded questions from WKAR Radio's listening audience on a program Friday.

LION'S PROJECTS: DeWitt Breakfast Lions Club has two fall projects just getting underway - the sale of Christmas wrapping paper and the second annual Win a Goat for a Friend raffle.

Starting about mid-October, members will begin selling $3 packages of bright, cheery Christmas wrap. Each big packet will contain 14 (20x26) paper sheets in seven sparkling, contemporary, holiday designs. All the money raised will help to finance the Lions' Christmas charities in the DeWitt area. SERIES ON CATHOLICISM: In the spirit of welcome and fellowship, the Community of St. Jude invites all residents of the DeWitt area to a series of informal gatherings called "What Does It Mean to Be Catholic?" The format of the evenings will be informal with ample opportunity for questions and discussion.

"Many people have questions about the Catholic faith that they would like to have answers for, especially with the visit of Pope John Paul II" said Jack Armstrong, the Coordinator of Adult Education at St. Jude's. "We hope to provide an informal setting where people will be able to learn more about our Catholic tradition and about the Community of Jude in particular." People are invited to any one or all of the sessions.

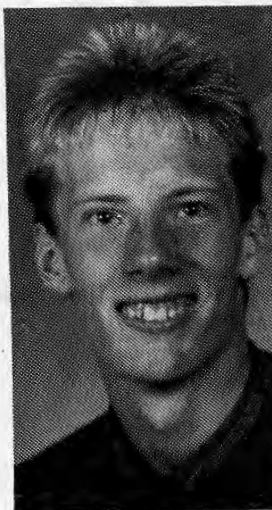

The first session was held last Wednesday evening. The remaining three sessions will take place at the Community of St. Jude, 801 N. Bridge Street, DeWitt, from 7:30-9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, October 21, November 18, and December 16. For further information, please call 669-8341, 321-3949, or 482-8210.

DeWitt High School senior Geoff Brown has qualified as a semifinalist in the 1988 National Merit Scholarship Program. The merit program, conducted by National Merit Scholarship Corporation, Evanston, IL, is a widely known academic competition which provides recognition and scholarships

SCHOOL BOARD ACTION

DeWitt Board of Education approved Scott School revised renovation plans, final plans for the new elementary school, and finalized the site for the new elementary school on Schavey Road at their September 14 meeting. The architect and construction manager predict that Scott School gym and cafeteria will be completed by the second semester and that the new elementary and Scott School will be ready for school opening next fall.

Revised plans approved for Scott School will not change the actual structure; the multipurpose room will be added in front of the cafeteria and the principal's office will be moved from the middle to the front of the school. Revisions still keep the project within budget and will provide the facilities promised in the bond issue.

The renovation will also allow space for expansion, if needed, according to School Superintendent Terre Davis. For instance, the art room could become a classroom. Dr. Davis told the board that she

The popular Goat Raffle (Buy a ticket for a friend - you certainly don't want to buy one for yourself!) will continue until the drawing Monday, November 2, which will be held at DeWitt City fire station, at 6:30 p.m. Lions expect to sell tickets from their bright yellow trailer at DeWitt High School's home football games including Homecoming.

Tom Terranova, last year's lucky winner of the goat, graciously returned it to the Lions, who, in turn, gave it back to owners Doug and Tricia Reust. Goat raffle tickets can be obtained from any Breakfast Club member. Proceeds will benefit the Lions' many local community projects including assistance to the blind and hearing impaired.

Chairing various Breakfast Lions committees this year for president Hank Furman are: Bob Ortwein, membership; Lewis Charles, white cane; Doug Sirmons, goat raffle; Dan Bourbon, project; John Spoelma, program, and Dick Smeage, phone.

SCHOOLS BENEFIT: DeWitt Public Schools Foundation raised $1,764, surpassing by $200 last year's total with their recent 4 Person Golf Scramble at Prairie Creek Golf Course. Winning team with a score of 60 on the third annual 18-hole scramble included Roger Overway, John Fabian, Rob Fabian, and Jerry Shay.

Early morning fog lifted, producing beautiful, sunny weather for the tournament, chairman Dan Bourbon said. The golf fundraiser provides money for DPSF projects which benefit DeWitt schools and students.

The foundation will now be sending mini-grant applications to all DeWitt teachers in mid-October. Projects selected for grants will allow elementary, middle, or high school teachers to provide enrichment opportunities for students, which the ordinary school budget does not cover.

CANNING TOMATOES: NEW GUIDELINES

It definitely is canning seasons in Clinton County. Every day I receive several questions on how to preserve different vegetables. Many canning questions can be answered by a canning book such as those published by the Ball or Kerr Company. When it comes to canning tomatoes however, I go to a different source. The U.S.D.A. recently published updated recommendations for canning tomatoes. Since the guidelines have not been updated since 1940, there were considerable changes.

Listed below are the new canning guidelines for tomatoes that are canned whole or halved. These directions require that the product be packed in water. If you choose to can your tomatoes in tomato juice or without any added liquid, the canning time increases significantly. This is because the product is much thicker without the water and it takes longer for heat to penetrate through to the center.

If you have further questions about how to can your tomatoes, please don't hesitate to call the Cooperative Extension Service, 224-5240.

TOMATOES -- WHOLE OR HALVED (packed in water)

1. Wash tomatoes, remove skins, core and trim off any discolored portions.
2. Leave WHOLE or HALVED.
3. For RAW pack -- put tomatoes in jars. Add boiling water to cover, leaving ½ inch headspace.
- For HOT pack -- place tomatoes in sauce pan. Add enough water to cover. Boil gently for 5 minutes. Put tomatoes in jars. Add enough of the hot cooking liquid to cover, leaving ½ inch headspace.
4. Add bottled lemon juice or citric acid: 2 Tbsp. bottled lemon juice or ½ teaspoon citric acid per quart of tomatoes. For pints use 1 tablespoon bottled lemon juice or ¼ teaspoon citric acid.
5. Adjust lids and process.

PROCESS TIME -- TOMATOES - WHOLE OR HALVED (packed in water)

Fact Sheet Answers County Jail Questions

Seventeen Clinton County residents, chosen as a Jail Steering Committee to promote the need for a new county jail, have compiled a fact sheet to answer questions asked about the proposed jail. The issue will be decided by voters in a November 3 election.

In answer to the question, "Why did the County sell the property originally selected for the jail?", the fact sheet replied, "The property purchased by the County was sold at a substantial profit. The County made the decision to sell the property because the proposed jail still required voter approval and the County saw the opportunity to experience a profit by selling."

Also asked was why the County needed a 60 acre parcel? The fact sheet stated "that the land owner of the Townsend Road location agreed to sell only if the entire parcel was purchased. The cost of the parcel is very reasonable and may prove to cost less than opting for a smaller, less buildable site."

Was the County considering locating the jail on the County Farm site? Facts from the sheet stated that the "County Board of Commissioners are currently engaged in developing a comparative study on that site. Once completed the study will help determine the feasibility of construction on the site and what improvements to the land must occur prior to construction."

The fact sheet said "There was no reliable method of projecting whether or not the County would be able to offset some of the construction costs by boarding other counties' inmates. However, if the County was able to fully house its own inmates, as much as $200,000 would have been saved in boarding expenses, not to mention transportation costs and officers' wages."

Other questions answered included if the November 3 vote favors construction of the new jail, would the revenues be used for any other purpose? "The millage revenue will be applied to jail construction only," the facts stated. "Any future County construction will be offered to the MARCHING BAND: Sophomore Doug Wilcox is playing trumpet again this season with the University of Michigan marching band. A 1986 DeWitt High School grad, he is the son of Diane Cranmer, Sage Lane.

More than 300 students tried out the first week of September for the 225-member marching band. Those who make the band are kept on their toes throughout the season by other musicians who can challenge them for their positions every week. Besides performing at all seven home games, the marching band will travel out-of-town for Michigan State and Illinois games, give two performances in Toronto in early October, and there is always the possibility of making a post-season bowl appearance.

The marching band also has been invited to perform at the World Expo in Brisbane, Australia, next May. In addition to performing at the Expo, the band will tour through many other cities in Australia, travel to New Zealand, and stop off in Hawaii on the return trip.

This fall, the marching band can also be seen in concert at Band-O-Rama on October 24 and at the Crisler Concert on November 20 (the night before the Ohio State game).

jail, would the revenues be used for any other purpose? "The millage revenue will be applied to jail construction only," the facts stated. "Any future County construction will be offered to the voters for approval at the proper time."

What would happen if the County does not build a new jail? The answer: "the State Department of Corrections could move to close the jail at its discretion. The existing structure falls far short of the MODC standards. No modification or renovation would bring the present jail up to code. As jail populations rise, so will the amount of money required to house inmates in other counties. As jail conditions worsen, liability insurance and litigation costs will rise."

A new era in music ministry entered the life of the congregation at Redeemer United Methodist Church, when installation of a Moller pipe organ was completed. The decision to install the instrument was made recently by the administrative board after many months of planning and fundraising.

New State Law Chooses Jurors

More Michigan citizens now have a chance of being chosen to serve on a jury. A state law passed in 1986 noticeably increases the potential pool of jury members by calling jurors from lists of drivers' licenses and state-issued personal identification cards instead of from voter registration rolls.

The Secretary of State's Office estimates that 95 percent of Michigan adults, who are eligible for jury duty have either drivers' licenses or personal identification cards (usually issued to elderly persons or to non-drivers), and that only about 85 percent of the eligible adults are registered voters. Supporters felt that this new legislation, which takes effect in August 1987, would provide better representation of juries of minorities and young adults, two groups that tend to be underrepresented on voter registration rolls. They also noted that this method would provide more accurate address information than voter registration lists.

This new legislation does not make any other changes in

The organ consists of over 800 pipes arranged in an exposed stance in the front of the Redeemer sanctuary. Its initial use on Sunday, September 20, was met with great anticipation and some hesitation on the part of members of the congregation. The transition from a 35-year-old electric organ to the Moller pipe was similar to hearing a small home organ played one week and a cathedral organ the next.
